

APPEALS SENTENCE IN ROXBURY AUTO THEFT

Judge Hadden of Roxbury Court today sentenced James E. Dwyer, who gave California as his residence, to the Massachusetts Reformatory upon conviction on a charge of the larceny of an automobile belonging to Francis W. Gilman, of Northside Cottage avenue, West Roxbury. Dwyer appeared and was held in $5,000 bail for Superior Court. Lawrence Reed of Church Hill place, Milton, arrested with Dwyer, was held until tomorrow for hearing on a similar charge.

EASTER PERIOD IN COLLEGES BEGINS

Students Leave on Vacation; Special Train for Girls of Wellesley

New England colleges began their Easter vacation today, and hundreds of women and young women left for home.

The railroads made special arrangements for handling the traffic, running special trains as well as substituting cars for the regular trains.

The Boston & Albany railroad ran a special train for the college girls of Wellesley College students, leaving the college town shortly after noon for Springfield and New York. One trainload of Vassar College students was run through over the Boston & Albany tracks from Hudson, N. Y., to Boston.

Wellesley College closed today and will reopen April 4. Many Western students have signified their intention of remaining in or near Boston during the vacation, looking time to make the long trip home.

A number of them will spend the vacation period doing settlement housework as part of their college training.

RADIO FANS TO HEAR EDISON REPLY

Boston American Broadcast to Carry Tufts Professor's Answer

By A. B. HOAG.

Dr. Harvey Allen Wooster, Jackson professor of political science at Tufts College, does not agree with Professor W. A. Scott of the University of Wisconsin, who Thomas A. Edison claims decided to answer his questions on money and implied senile decay because of his asking them.

Dr. Wooster has prepared an expert treatise on the last Edison questions, in which he tells why, in his opinion, Edison's monetary plan is not workable. It will be broadcast today to 30,000 auditors by the American Radio Research Corporation of Medford Hillside.

The purchaser of a small radio-phonograph set will forever after, like Alexander the Great, be looking around for new worlds to conquer.

Not the least fascination of owning a small radio set is the fact that it can be improved on little by little. New apparatus may be added, and the existing wiring and hook-up may be varied almost without limit. Today I will describe some of the popular combinations.

The simplest device obtainable for receiving radio broadcasts is the crystal detector set. This costs around $25 and is effective roughly for about twenty-five miles.

CONNECTIONS FOR SET.

The connections for such a set are the ground and the aerial, both of which I have described in previous articles, and the phono which are attached to the proper binding posts.

Two adjustments are necessary on such an instrument—the resistance, which governs the tuning, and the damping—when the phono is connected to the proper binding posts.

With such an instrument you will be able to listen in on wave lengths from about 100 to 10,000 meters, which includes the broadcasting.

A loading coil would increase the effectiveness of your set to about 2,000 meters. This would cost around $10 and would not interfere with the tuning as previously described.

However, your effective receiving distance is only about twenty-five miles with such an instrument.

RANGE IS EXTENDED.

You will be gratified to find a vacuum tube detector which you can substitute for the crystal detector. Your range will not be capable of all the things that the crystal detector can do.

These sets cost from $15 up, or you can make one up for yourself much cheaper. They involve a vacuum tube, which is similar to an ordinary electric light bulb. It costs about $4 or $5.

For better reception, you may need a storage battery and a special dry cell, called "A" or "B" battery.

With such an outfit, you can add a power amplifier and a loud speaking phone so that it will be possible to disagree with the earphones and listen to broadcasts and concerts as you listen to the phonograph. You will not lose or increase or alter the nature of the air.

What Radio Fans Will Hear Tonight.

Amrad, WOL, Medford—8:00 p. m., Boston American News Broadcast, Amrad night. "Side Light" in Radio Communication, by Professor F. R. Dulemeau, Jr., Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Announcement of amateur activities, code practice and instruction. College songs by Radcliffe Musical Club in commemoration of 25th anniversary of the college.

Westinghouse, WJZ, Newark—7 p. m., "Man in the Moon" for children. Marie Naville Davies. Weather points and company. Stand and Off Band of Bayway, N. J., 45 pieces.

Westinghouse, WJZ, Springfield, Mass.—7:30 p. m., "Coke Wagon" Radio Store. Market and weather reports. Charles Thurman, violinist, Ralph Thurman, pianist.

Westinghouse, KDKA, East Pittsburgh—8:00 p. m., "The Junior Civic Club and its Aim," by Norman S. Stann, Bentley High School. Vocal and instrumental selections by Richard Kottke, baritone; Miss Dix Bryson, pianist, and a violinist.

Question Box for Radio Fans

Address all communications for this column to Radio Editor, Boston American, No. 85 Summer street, Boston, Mass. Questions will not be answered by mail or telephone. Those requesting dealers' names will receive literature.

Q—I would like to know if it is possible to have a two-way aerial about forty feet long and if I could receive, plain enough, G. H. Providence.

A—Yes.

Q—Could Newark, N. J., and East Pittsburgh, or any two sending stations send two different concerts at the same time? If not, what are the restrictions?—L. L. F., Westcott, N. J.

A—The only restriction on broadcasting stations now is that they send at 700 meters. This means some interference in practice, which depends on the distance and strength of the broadcasting stations. A communication in Washington is now considering the question of the broadcasting wave lengths to avoid this interference.

Q—I know practically nothing about radio. Can you recommend any books or magazines on the subject?—A. G. G., Boston.

A—Write to the Wireless Press, No. 224 Broadway, New York, or Experimenter Publishing Company, No. 213 Fulton street, New York, or your bookseller.

Q—Where can I find the A. W.

Horseman Company, manufacturers of the Boston or Bowman tuner?—T. H. L., Medford.

A—Church street, Cambridge.

Q—Does the company receive a royalty of any sort from apparatus installed by amateurs?—J. O. S., Haver, Mass.

A—The question of patent rights in radio apparatus is a complicated one at present. Royalties are not in general paid for amateur use of apparatus.

BONUS TO PASS THIS SESSION, SAYS WALSH

Congress Will Obey Demands of Public, Declares Senator in Speech at Worcester

Worcester, March 24.—"Congress will pass the bonus this session, not because it wants to, but because it knows the people back home want the soldiers paid a just compensation," declared United States Senator David I. Walsh at a mammoth

Petition for Soldier Bonus and Sales Tax

WE respectfully petition Congress to pass the Soldiers' Bonus act without further delay and also to levy a Sales Tax to obtain the money to pay the Bonus.

Mass meeting in Mechanics Hall conducted by Homer J. Whelan, Post, V. P. W., assisted by Whelan for Post, American Legion.

He delivered a scathing arraignment of the treatment of wounded veterans, asserting "they have been placed in hospitals not fit for animals, in houses discarded long ago and in ill ventilated institutions where paupers would not be sent. Any poor fellow seeking compensation was treated as a criminal trying to break into the treasury."

"If we cannot agree with what our heart can turn to mothers and ask them to give physically fit sons, with the record of neglect and indifference."

"Whoever charges soldiers of the late war with raiding the treasury while they stand by speaks. Less than 3 per cent. received compensation."

He declared if the government owed a debt to its soldiers it was none of the government's business how the money was spent. One change in the tax law or the payment of the interest on the foreign debt will pay the first installment.

Colonel Thomas F. Foley presided, and a tremendous ovation was given the Senator when Colonel Foley said: "And we hope at some future date he will occupy the high position in our power to give him."

Other speakers were State Commander John L. McDonald of the Worcester Post, Mayor John J. Sullivan of Worcester, and Commander John H. O'Brien of Worcester Post, American Legion.

MacNider Thinks Vets Will Approve Measure

Washington, March 24.—Confidence that the House bill would meet the general approval of former service men was expressed today by Hansford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion.

"The overwhelming majority given the adjusted compensation bill in the House," said Mr. MacNider, "shows the Representatives, close to the hearts of the people, realize the justice of the measure and, in spite of highly organized propaganda in opposition, know the great mass of Americans want this debt to the veterans paid and paid now."

"While the bill adopted differs in some respects from the original five-fold measure drawn by the American Legion at the request of Congress, I am confident it will meet the general approval of former service men and women, who have confidence in the integrity and judgment of the Ways and Means Committee."

"Any measure which has been twice passed by the Lower House by such overwhelming majorities, and once made the unfinished business of the Senate, is inevitable legislation."

BONUS BATTLE MOVED INTO SENATE

One Group to Seek Prompt Action, Another Spars for a Delay

By International News Service.

Washington, March 24.—The real fight over the soldier bonus began today.

Passage of the bill by the House and its transmission to the Senate is only one phase of the battle which will be fought out between now and next November. The fight has for its primary object a long delay that will enable the administration to perfect other arrangements for the payment of the bonus than are contained in the certificate plan brought out by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Republican senatorial leaders have not by any means abandoned the project of making the $11,000,000,000 foreign indebtedness of the United States pay the adjusted compensation to World War veterans. Either through interest, payments, or through some scheme of foreign loan cancellation, they believe the nation can discharge its obligation to the former soldiers and at the same time refrain from putting more burdens on the taxpayers.

President Harding and certain of his advisers, who are frankly opposed to the bill as it passed the House, are known to look favorably upon a bonus bill that could be framed under these conditions.

The official announcement in the House of Commons that Great Britain will pay the United States six months' interest this Fall and thereafter will make interest payments with some regularity has given considerable hope to administration leaders that ultimately matters can be so arranged as to let the foreign indebtedness carry the bonus load.

While it is doubtful if the Senate would pass the bonus bill as it stands today, there are, nevertheless, many sincere friends of the bonus in the Senate and it is predicted that it will be only a matter of days before they again begin agitating for senatorial action.

Walsh Signs Boston American Bonus Petition

Worcester, March 24.—United States Senator David I. Walsh signed the Boston American's soldier bonus petition following his speech at the mammoth mass meeting in Mechanics Hall.

So did Mayor Peter F. Sullivan and every other prominent man who attended the meeting.

HOW NEW ENGLANDERS VOTED ON BONUS BILL

Washington, March 24.—The House, under rag rule, passed the certificate bonus scheme by a vote of 233 to 19.

THREE SILENT LETTERS

Sofia, Bulgaria, March 24.—Two members of the Cabinet resigned as the result of differences in the ministry over the government's determination to eliminate three letters from the alphabet. These are the double "p," small "r" and capital "L." These letters are silent, but render the printing and writing of the language easier. Parliament passed a bill yesterday in the case of a similar case, the elimination of the letter "v" from the alphabet. The bill was passed by a vote of 11 to 10.

MILK DRIVERS VOTE TO ACCEPT $2 WAGE CUT

The Milk Drivers Union, Local No. 130, have voted to accept a $2 a week cut in their wages after the consideration of the local offered their report in which they stated that the leaders throughout the conference demanded a $5 cut.

It is the men who object, said Willard, arguing for a bill to compel all cities and towns record the age of registered voters.

President voting is such an evil that it must be stopped. Plenty of men can be hired for a few dollars and in close elections, even the United States Senator, the result may be changed by fraud.

HUNDREDS HIT BY L SURFACE TIEUP

Car Details in Back Bay and Another at Roxbury Crossing

Hundreds of men and women were forced to walk to work today and hundreds of school children were made late for school by one of the biggest rush hour tieups the Boston Elevated service has had in years.

The trouble started when a West bound Huntington Avenue car, stopped at the intersection of Huntington and Longwood Avenue shortly after eight o'clock.

The accident kept the air brakes from working and the heavy car bounded along until it struck a trolley pole. The trolley pole was thrown across both tracks, blocking traffic both ways.

By this time other cars had come to the Huntington car and were backed up to Tremont street on the trail of the South Huntington Avenue car.

By this time other cars had come to the Huntington car and were backed up to Tremont street on the trail of the South Huntington Avenue car.

CLEARED IN HOUR

The two jams got worse with every minute. Trolley gangs of the Elevated were rushed to the aid of the two cars and after half an hour's work managed to get the Huntington car back on the tracks.

The tieup at Roxbury Crossing proved more difficult to straighten out. By the time the repair gangs arrived twenty to thirty cars were involved, each with its rush hour load.

2 CAUGHT IN STOLEN AUTO AFTER LONG CHASE

Patrolman Charles Morley of the Dudley street station captured two young men early today in a stolen automobile after chasing the machine in another car for more than a mile and jumping on the running board while both cars were traveling at a rapid rate of speed.

PAWTUCKET MERCHANT REPULSES HOLDUP MAN

Providence, March 24.—Pawtucket police today repulsed their efforts to find the holdup man who in the last few days has held up ten portions of small stores and in every instance made one forced them to give him all their money.

The victim was Lee Mendon, No. 12 Franklin street, Pawtucket, who when the robber demanded the day's receipts, attacked the intruder and drove him off.

STABBED ON BOWERY, IS RESCUED BY SOLDIER

New York, March 24.—John Joseph O'Brien, British subject, rescued Ernest Sandberg, a German, who was attacked by highwaymen in the Bowery today.

Sandberg had been stabbed in the groin when O'Brien went to his assistance, brought off the pair of assailants and took Sandberg to a hospital.

J. J. Higgins Dead

ROUGH RIDING! In fact, this riding by members of the Bulgarian army is very rough on both horse and rider as they fall. This is just one of the many stunts performed before the royal family at Sofia. (International)

GOOD FOR THE SOLE! Scores of new machines are now being used to restore lifeless limbs to use and to enervate unused muscles. This device is used in a New York hospital to massage the soles of the feet and stir their circulation. The revolving drum pattern gently against the soles. Passed by Miss Avis Miller of New York.

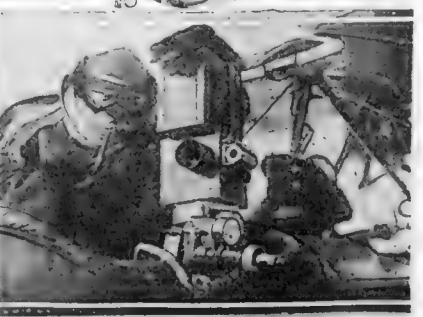

TRUCK PAINTING! Theodore Van Cise, an artist living in a dingy Chinese studio, has been called the "man with a million dollar secret." Experts declare that he can paint a picture today and "age" it 500 years overnight. He refuses to commercialize his secret. (Underwood)

YOU TELL 'EM, GOVERNOR! The miraculous and mystery of the radiophone have won the interest of Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania, and here we observe him boosting up his home State and incidentally making an appeal for the sequel-national exposition. His message was heard in New York, Boston and Pittsburgh. The instrument he is using is one of the new "long distance" radio phones. (International)

KIDDING THE BIKE! Antonio Sarmora, 2 1/2 years old, is believed to be the youngest bicycle champion in the world. He won the "Emenda Cup" in the juniors' race at Madrid, Spain. The cameramen caught him "ready for the gun." (Wide World)

THE FREEDOM OF THE KNEES is just as necessary as the freedom of the seas, and here the flappers. Rolled stockings appear less shocking to the conservative when fetchingly covered by this charming knitted dress of black and white yarn, with smart cape and hat to match. (Underwood)

FLY FELLERS! Flurs have ascended to great heights in airplanes, but scarcely always they were so occupied with keeping the "bus" straight and themselves warm that no photographic record has ever been made of their experiences. This picture shows Will Ruge, during German flight, taking moving pictures while over five miles up in the air. Observe his oxygen helmet. (Underwood)

MEN TO MAKE USE OF FILMS

Would Protect Industries of America by Motion Picture

New York, March 24.—The National Association of Manufacturers announced today the inauguration of a nation-wide effort to induce manufacturers to make greater use of motion pictures as a means of industrial education and salesmanship.

John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, has called a conference of manufacturers for April 11 in Washington, when the matter will be considered.

"The motion picture can be a great industrial and commercial value to this country, not only at home but abroad," he said. "We have seen the very bad effect of the flood of goods from low-cost countries. We have seen the effect of shutting down because of this invasion. We have not taken the proper steps for protection, and am speaking entirely from a non-political standpoint. I am speaking as a businessman. The American people are interested in seeing protection given to our industries and institutions."

"Other countries, having flooded America with goods produced at figure far below anything we could dream of, are now going into the market to sell the world, preaching the superiority of their goods and using the motion pictures as one of the most effective salesmen. American goods are bound to suffer and we must not close our eyes to this situation."

"We must go out after this business as we would for domestic business, and one of our most valuable means will be the industrial motion picture."

These countries are starting the

HUGE NEW RAIL COMBINATION

PROJECTED

Five Systems Likely to Be Included in Merger.
Leaders Believe

New York, March 24.—FORTHCOMING formation of a huge new rail system rivaling the Pennsylvania and New York Central systems, was Wall Street's interpretation of a statement just issued by Newman El...

It was reported in railroad circles that the combination would include the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, the New York, Chicago & St. Louis, the Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Pere Marquette and Ann Arbor. It was added that the Pere Marquette is negotiating with the principal owners of the Ann Arbor Railway Company stock, looking to the acquisition of its control by the former company.

It was said in other quarters that another road is bidding for control of the Ann Arbor. The stock had advanced about 20 points since January, reports of an impending merger being said to have been responsible for the movement.

It is explained in railroad quarters that these tentative plans are closely associated with the recent merger of the New York, Chicago &

St. Louis Road and the Toledo, St. Louis & Western. It is held that the ultimate aim is to link all these roads with the Luckawanna system.

TO VETO BILL FOR ARMY

LESS THAN 130,000

Washington, March 24.—Dissatisfied by the failure of the House to provide for an adequate army, President Harding and his advisers are pinning their hopes on the Senate. President Harding indicated that he will veto the army bill unless it establishes 130,000 men.

"Congress is showing an utter disregard for national defense in the program of drastic army and navy reductions," Representative McCarver, Republican of Oregon, declared.

They Wanted the War

They Got It and Now They Don't Want to Pay, but They MUST. Reason No. 6 for the Bonus

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

We publish today the sixth of the reasons given by W. R. Hearst for paying the soldiers their bonus. If you know anybody that needs to be convinced, cut this out and hand it to him. You might incidentally cut it out and mail it to the two Senators from your State and to your Congressmen. They need reminders of this kind, for they are being swamped with gentlemen that wanted the war, got their fortunes out of it and now DON'T want to pay for it.

The SIXTH REASON, setting forth the attitude of the Hearst newspapers, and of 80 per cent. of the sound American citizenship, is as follows:

SIXTH, because the classes who are opposed to the soldier bonus are largely the big business interests and the privileged financial and social classes, who are afraid that they will have to pay taxes for the soldier bonus.

These big financial leaders and social leaders are the people who wanted the war and clamored for the war and finally succeeded in projecting the United States into the war, largely on account of their sympathies with foreign countries with which they had connections.

Now, they have had their war and they do not want to pay for it. They profiteered during the war and made millions and hundreds of millions of dollars, but they do not want to give up any part of their profiteering to the men who went abroad and lived in the trenches and sacrificed their health, their youth, their opportunities, in order to uphold the honor of their country and win the war that these profiteers and patrioters were so deeply interested in, sentimentally and financially.

The position of the Hearst papers has been simple and straightforward from first to last with regard to the war and the soldiers that won it.

In the first place, we did not believe that this European war was necessarily our American war, and we endeavored to keep America out of the war as long as in honor it could keep out of it, realizing what war meant in blood and treasure, in the sacrifice of our splendid American manhood, and in the terrible national burden of war expenditure and subsequent taxation.

In the second place, when the country was once committed to the war, the attitude of the Hearst papers was to prosecute the war to the utmost with every resource of men and money in order to bring it to a victorious conclusion as speedily as possible, and to get back to normal conditions and to freedom from entangling alliances at the earliest possible moment.

In the third place, the attitude of the Hearst papers now is that—in common honor and common decency and common gratitude and common foresight for the future—we should do justice to a people and as a nation to the men who won the war and sacrificed so much of the joy of life and the opportunity of youth in order, through their splendid courage and patriotism, to uphold the good name of their country and increase its greatness and glory throughout the earth.

The man who can hesitate to give a small part of his store for no more and no less a citizenship is unworthy of the benefits of American citizenship and civilization. W. R. HEARST.

Clever Japan, Wise England

They Know How to Manage

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

Not long ago an English naval authority wrote a book in which he showed that complete forfeiture of Guam by the United States would forever prevent effective attack on this country by Japan. It would put in our hands, for defence, "a gun aimed at Japan's heart."

A synopsis of that book was published in this column. A few weeks afterward the Washington conference gathered, and this country, to the shame of its "statesmen," allows itself to be told by Japan and England that Guam SHALL NOT be fortified.

The day will come when every Senator voting for that treaty will look back to that vote with bitter regret. It is treason to agree that your country shall not do that which is necessary to make the nation and its people safe. Well may the British praise Balfour, aged statesman on the edge of the grave, who comes here and makes pitiful simian jokes of our so-called "great men."

Fortunately, another Congress, another administration, and another POPULAR VOTE will be able to tell Japan and England that this country is still run BY THIS COUNTRY.

One thousand mining engineers, gathered in New York, give this information: Japan's supply of oil, including gasoline, will last 300 years. The United States' supply will be gone in about twenty years. That is interesting news for the big flying fleet that Japan is building up, while our "statesmen" make four-power treaties, tying our hands, leaving our far Eastern possessions unfortified.

The Senate wanted all details about that Washington conference, agreements, discussions, conversations, etc. They are told they cannot have what they ask, the information doesn't exist. No wonder!

When a man takes chloroform and comes out of it, he has a vague recollection that wonderful things happened, but doesn't quite know WHAT. The definite thing is that his tooth is out when he comes to. About all our dear little dodos of the conference know is, that, when they came out of the chloroform supplied by Balfour and Tokio, Uncle Sam's tooth was out—and now he couldn't bite if he tried it.

For New England's Welfare

Let Everyone Aid the Excellent Program Adopted by the Commercial Conference at Washington—Opposed to St. Lawrence Waterway Scheme

The program adopted by the New England Conference at Washington for the promotion of the commercial and industrial welfare of New England is an interesting program, which the Boston American gladly adopts and which we shall publish from time to time, urging our readers whenever by thought or act they can promote it, to try to do so. This is the program:

FIRST, it declares in favor of the same export and shipping advantages to and from the West as Baltimore, Philadelphia and other North Atlantic ports, stating that "Unless the present rail handicaps are removed, our New England ports cannot be considered as being on a fairly competitive basis with the other ports, and will continue to lose prestige, to the disadvantage not only of New England, but of the entire country as well."

SECOND, it declares in favor of a ship subsidy.

THIRD, it declares in favor of the purchase of the Cape Cod Canal and its operation as a free toll waterway.

FOURTH, it opposes the St. Lawrence waterway scheme.

FIFTH, it favors the establishment of a New England bureau in Washington.

The Boston American endorses what Senator Lodge and Mayor Curley said against the St. Lawrence Canal project, although their opposition was a bit parochial. They said that they did not believe that the great project of canalization of the St. Lawrence River would help New England. Indeed, Mayor Curley emphatically declared, what was obviously true, that it would aid Montreal to the disadvantage of New England. If it should greatly aid the West in the shipping of its grain and other products to Europe we could not with much grace oppose it if the advantage to the West were greater than the disadvantage to New England.

However, our opposition to it need not be selfish. We have the great authority of General Goethals, the builder of the Panama Canal, that the St. Lawrence cannot be made an effective freight canal for our West as some of our Western people imagine. Moreover, there is this further ground in principle on which to rest our objection to this proposal—the canal is to be built on British territory and the United States is to pay one-half of its huge cost, and yet leave it entirely in the control of the British for their exclusive use in the unhappy event of war between us.

Closed Bank Investigation

People Indebted to Cox for Making Inquiry Possible. Let It Be Thorough.

The other day the Boston American urged that there should be an investigation concerning the closing of the banks in Boston to ascertain who was responsible, whether the Bank Commissioner or the managers of the banks.

Yesterday, Governor Cox in reappointing Bank Commissioner Allen, called for this investigation in these words: "The term for Bank Commissioner Allen has expired and today I am reappointing him. In my judgment he has met a most difficult situation with courage and honesty. The officials of some of the closed institutions have attacked Mr. Allen without mercy."

In some cases it has seemed to me that they have tried to escape their depositors' vengeance for their own wrong doing and incompetency by making these vituperative assaults upon the Commissioner. Some officials of the closed banks have recently said that they would like to have the Legislature investigate the closing of their institutions.

That proposition appeals to me. The Legislature represents all the people. I should welcome an investigation by the Legislature or any other fair tribunal. It would be helpful if the people were informed by their Representatives just how some of the men who have been entrusted with people's savings have kept their trust. I believe that the public is entitled to a verdict upon those men as well as upon Mr. Allen.

The condition of the closed banks is not a question of argument, it is a question of fact. If the banks are solvent and secure, they ought to be reopened so that the depositors may get their money. If, on the other hand, they are hopelessly insolvent, or if the assets of these banks have been wasted through mismanagement or dissipated through wrong doing, then the former officials who have cried persecution ought to be forced silent.

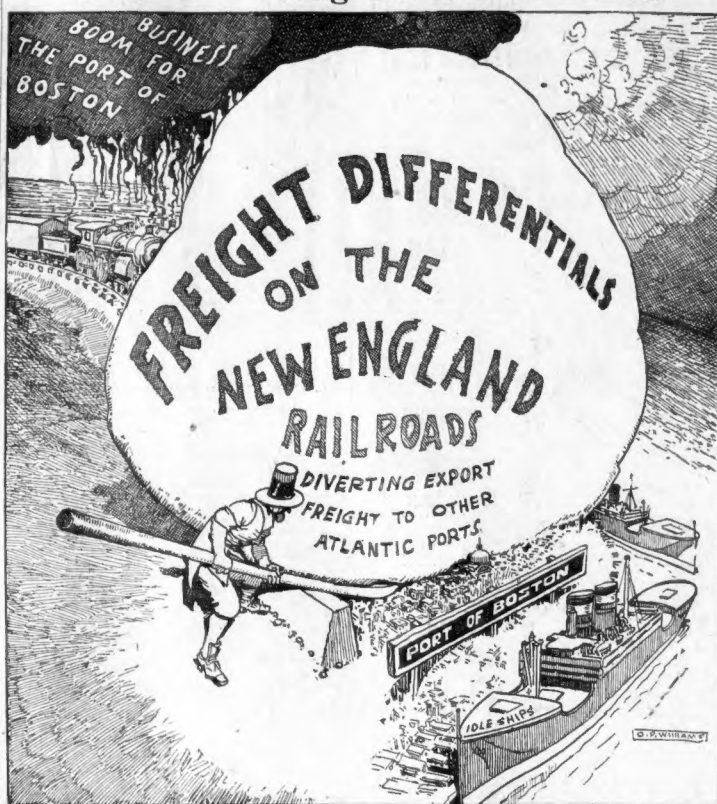

I am confident that any fair investigation will demonstrate that Mr. Allen in closing the various institutions acted solely for the protection of the public, and that the public will approve his firm course in the face of constant abuse.

On the contrary, if any fair tribunal should find that Mr. Allen's course had been otherwise than for the protection of the public, then I should feel it my duty to ask for his resignation. It is significant that although each one of the banks affected had a right to ask the Supreme Court for a review of the Commissioner's act in closing the banks, no one of them has seen fit to ask for such review.

The people of metropolitan Boston are indebted to Governor Cox for making this investigation possible. Let us learn the facts. Let us have a thorough, ruthless investigation. Let us find who is guilty of ruining these banks, robbing the stockholders and depositors and giving the city a bad name throughout the financial world.

Let the investigating tribunal be able and disinterested. It ought not to include anyone connected with any of the existing banks of Boston.

What Is Waiting Behind the Block

Letter to the Editor

Save the Children

Editor Boston American:

One hundred thousand orphan children must perish unless they have speedy help. Dr. Mabel Elliott of the American Women's Hospital at Erivan writes: "All day long we hear the wails and groans of little children outside our office buildings, hoping we can and will pick them up. If the sun shines a little while they quiet down; when it rains they begin again. One day when the rain turned to snow it was awful to listen to them. . . I had the windows closed."

Can we close our ears and our hearts to that sound? At this Lenten season, can we not sacrifice some luxury and send the price of it to the starving Armenians? I have sold the rug off my floor for the relief fund. Five dollars will save a life; $100 will support a child for a year. Every little helps. Send your contributions to the Near East Relief, No. 1218 Little Building, Boston 11, Mass.

SOCIAL CONTACT IN PUBLIC SCHOOL A BOON

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1922, by Winifred Black

MARY and Harold are not going to the public schools. Not this term or any other term.

The mother of Mary and Harold says she doesn't want her children to go to public school and be contaminated by contact with other children. She may send them away to some very exclusive private school—it she can find one that is fine enough and difficult enough and cheap enough at the same time.

Otherwise she will keep them at home and teach them herself. All sorts of things she will teach them—history and geography and arithmetic and when the time comes, algebra, Latin and English and the art of composition—I wonder how far she thinks these things will take Mary and Harold on the road of practical life.

Will Have Hard Time

And will she teach them, too, humility and modesty and self-denial and respect for the rights of other people?

Will she teach them tact and good nature and sympathy and tolerance and broad-minded understanding?

How? "Your Mary and Harold, what a terrible time they're going to have in the world!"

Wouldn't it be a child of mind stand in the shoes of other men of their kind?

What would you learn that? Out of a book?

Or did the little red-headed "Mick" from down by the tracks drub that into your head the day you tried to fool him in a school game?

What taught you to be kind and sympathetic?

Did you learn it in a lecture or did the idea first dawn upon you when you stubbed your toe and the great, big, awkward boy yowl always laughs at came and helped you to a place where you could sit down and brought you some cold water and brushed off your dress and never would you about it to a human soul?

Humility was that born in you or did that clever little mimic who sat in the front seat show you the way to be humble.

when she mimicked the way you held your head and grinned a sickly grin, which she said was exactly like yours, when teacher praised you for a bit of original work?

Tact—did you stay after school and learn a set of rules about when to talk about what, or did you find out that there were some things best never mentioned at some particular time, when you said something against the bride, in the presence of the little girl who sat across a row in her hair?

Did you borrow books and forget to return them?

Who nicknamed you "Beastie, the Borrower" and cured you of that trick once and for all?

No, no, you didn't learn these things at home—not unless you had a whole lot of brothers and sisters and cousins and kin folk!

You learned them at school, where you were "contaminated" by contact with other children.

And, whisper, they were among the very best things you learned there, too.

Somebody's Birthday

Copyright, 1922, by The Best Magazine, Inc.

If today is your birthday, you should have an admirable character in general, as you have a keen sense of justice and at the same time a generous, lenient nature.

You have fair play and are only severe to those who cheat—during it be in business or in sport. This flexibility of temperament might fit you for any one of a number of careers—if you choose one early in life and stick to it otherwise it is a quality which may prove a boomerang and make you a jack all trades with no particular proficiency in any one of them. You lack a certain amount of sympathy for people whose lives have been less fortunate than your own.

Your associates will notice this in every instance and push you with their aloofness. Learn to see the situation of others through their eyes.

You should be more considerate and try to meet the demands of the other person. You will find that your most congenial friends will have been born under Libra, September 23rd to October 23rd, and Leo, July 23rd to August 23rd.
